Humbert was chosen as the first victim, she says, not only because Italy had taken the initiative in the anarchist conference, but because Italian anarchists, having been accused of attempting the lives only of foreign sovereigns, wished to demonstrate the contrary.

The proposition to revive capital punishment will cause great discussion and violent opposition in the Chamber.

The King has requested the Kaiser not to come to Italy at present, as he is unable to guarantee his safety.

Geneva officials informed Luccheni, in prison for killing the Empress of Austria, of the assassination of Humbert, hoping to obtain information of the anarchist conspiracy.

Luccheni exclaimed: "Vive joie!"

He declared the new King and other sovereigns would soon have their turn. He would not give any information.

Then, there being an intimation that he had gone far enough on credit, he went out and obtained cash enough to make good the $5,000 and leave him a surplus of $10,000. His wagers were increased, and by the time the last St. Louis race had been run he had lost $10,000 and was in debt to the poolroom to the extent of a couple of thousand more. PRICE-M'CORMICK AFFAIRS. Time for Creditors to File Claims Extended to August 18.

New York, Aug. 6.-Creditors of the former brokerage house of Price, McCormick & Co., which made an assignment a few months ago, will now have until Saturday, August 18, to file with the Metropolitan Trust Company their claims against that firm and thus enter into the readjustment agreement for which James G. Cannon of the Fourth National Bank and the committee of trustees of which he is chairman stand sponsors. The time originally set for such filing expired to-day, but the trustees held a meeting and decided to extend it.

Mr. Cannon said to-day that a large majority of the creditors of the company had availed themselves of the plan and agreement and filed their claims with the Metropolitan Trust Company. He would not say just what proportion of the creditors had done so, but declared that the amount already deposited justified the trustees in announcing the plan as effective. He explained that the extension had been made in order to give all creditors an opportunity to file their claims, but that the trustees had to limit the time positively to August 18. Mr. Cannon said the amount of deposits had exceeded his most sanguine expectations. August 18, to file with the Metropolitan

He was asked whether the reports of dissatisfaction with the plan on the part of certain creditors had come to his ears.

"No." said he, "there is no dissatisfaction to speak of. Of course, in every reorganization plan there are some who stay out and criticise; but I have scarcely every seen a case where there was so little objection to the plan as this one."

Von der Ahe is suing for the price of a medal, which he presented to Weil, alleging that Weil requested him to present him with the medal and promised to refund the money expended. This Well denies, and avers that the presentation was of Mr. Von der Ahe's own volition. The suit was filed yesterday in Justice Hanley's court by Attorney William A Kinnerk. Attorney Kinnerk says that before h filed the sult he interrogated B. S. Muckenfuss, who is said to be a witness in the case, and declares that Muckenfuss substantiated Von der Ahe's statement. The presentation was made at the opening of the Von der Ahe-Reinecke Grocery Com-

Weil said that he had brought suit against Von der Abe for alleged breach of contract, Von der Abe having dismissed him before the close of the season. Captain Albers, the commander of the Deutschland, denies that he said anything in the nature of a reprimand or that he ordered the officer to remove his coat. This story of the officer's suspension was told by the stewards and retold by the passen-

It had been noted that Thiele was in despondent frame of mind before the departure of the Deutschland from Hamburg. He remained on board the vessel all the time that she was in port. He had spoken to several of the officers about financial troubles and especially of a mortgage which would soon be due. He was moody and depressed. He spent his time when not on duty sitting in his room. He seldem spoke to any of his brother officers. He went on watch shortly after midnight on August 1, and was to have been on duty until 4 o'clock that morning. He was

The second officer, who shares the same cabin, went down at 4 o'clock. He was unable to get in on account of some heavy body placed against the door. He had, in the opinion of the surgeon, who was im-mediately summoned, been dead about two hours and a half. He must have shot him self a few minutes after leaving the bridge. Information of the suicide was for several days withheld from the passengers, and the life of the saloon and smoking-room was undisturbed. The body was committed to the sea at 2 o'clock on the following morning. No papers were found upon the body or in the cabin which showed the cause of

Although the marriage of Mr. Ehret and Ada Dare took place on August II, it did not become known until Sentember 28. Mr. Ehret and his bride were then spending the honeymoon in a Chicago hotel, and the news got out by accident. At first both he and his wife denied that there had been a marriage, but when shown the records they confessed and asked that the fact be suppressed, because, as Mr. Ehret said, it would interfere with some business plans he had afoot. Mr. Ehret gave his age at the time as 33. and his wife gave hers as 28.

The license also gave the name of Mrs. Frances M. Roux as the real name of "Ada Dare." Tances."

This marriage was only one of a series of experiences and escapades that had kept young Ehret's name before the public for some years and caused his father to describe him as "a foolish boy."

Ada Dare was a burlesque actress. The last time she appeared on the stage in this city was at the Casino in 1896. Prior to this she had acted in a sketch called "After the French Ball."

Her marriage to Mr. Ehret was not been French Ball."

Her marriage to Mr. Ehret was not her first. She was the wife of "Tom" Dare, a circus clown. She obtained a divorce from him, and at the time of her marriage to Mr. Ehret she called herself Mrs. Frances M. Roux. It is said that she will fight the suit and has engaged Howe & Hummel to

St. Charles Car Wheel Works May Go to Madison.

Citizens of Madison, Ill., and St. Charles, Mo., are earnestly discussing a report to the effect that the entire car wheel department of the American Car and Foundry Company's plant at St. Charles is to be removed to Madison, where the trust has one of its largest foundries.

Many official denials of such change have been made, but the project continues to be common talk. About 700 wheels a day are made at Madison and 150 per day at St. It has been stated that the reason such a movement had not before been contemplated was because the St. Charles shops have been able to manufacture wheels with a larger percentage of success than the Madison shops, which difference, it is stated, has now been overcome at the latter plant.

TOO OFTEN ENGAGED.

Iowa Girl Arrested Charged With Deluding Would-Be Benedicts.

Red Oak, Ia., Aug. 6 .- "Oft engaged, but never married," is the sequel to pretty Lotta Cooper's semisuccess, but ultimate distress. Her incarceration in the Douglass tress. Her incarceration in the Douglass County Jail will give her ample time to meditate over the unevenness of love that knows no truthfulness.

Lotta has been making love for a number of years, but never until she encountered Deputy Marshal Wallen did she meet a man with courage enough to "take her in." Her play with Cupid has been through the matrimonial bureaus, and the records show that on many occasions her "heart has been melted" and the faltering "Y-e-s" has escaped her lips.

Her scheme, it is claimed, has been to answer advertisements of men who are in sore need of a wife to share their accumulated wealth. Photographs are exchanged, the correspondence grows serious, and, in a remarkably short time, # match is made. Preparations for the weddings are being perfected, when the fair bride-elect discovers that she will not come in possession of her dead father's estate until about two months later, and she writes her intended a touching letter, stating that unless she get a few dollars—perhaps $100 — for the trouseau she must postpone the wedding until the courts hand over her money.

In this way Lotta has been able to make money.

In this way Lotta has been able to make a very comfortable living, so say the officials. Lotta was brought in from Nebraska City on a capias indictment made by the Grand Jury two years ago. L. D. Curtis, a farmer from Cass County, and Mabel Rodman of Nebraska City are interceding for the woman and hope to secure bonds for her release.

GOLD FOR SHIPMENT.

Export of One Million in Connection With War Loan.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Aug. 6.-Gold to the amount of $1,000,000 was obtained at the Assay Office to-day by Baring, Magoun & Co., for shipment to England on Wednesday by the White Star Line steamship Oceanic. The export is made in connection with the new British war loan, and a round of gold is expected to leave the country for this purpose. Just how much will be added to it this week, if any, and what the total amount of the exports are matters of confecture.

It was ascertained to-day that fully $35,-000,000 of the total amount of the loan of fil0,000,000, or about $50,000,000, had already been subscribed for in this country. Bankers interested in the flotation here were unwilling to mention the names of subscribers or the amount of their subscriptions. Twenty-five million dollars of the loan is, however, underwritten in this country by J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. and Baring, Magoun & Co. and their associates in Boston and Philadelphia, and it seems likely that if necessary the entire loan could easily be taken. Demand sterling bills were very strong to-day, selling as high as 4.8830, but easing off at the close with sales at 4.8815. A majority of the exchange men, however, quoted demand at 4.884. Houses figuring on gold shipments maintained that without any inducements for shipping the metal could not be sent forward with a profit at better than 4.884. This, in their opinion, clearly indicated that some arrangement had been made between the syndicate and the Bank of England, by means of which the former was insured against loss, and that the export is connected solely with the war loan. It was reported in the city to-day that numerous bank officers had received inquiries respecting their willingness to loan on the new British bonds. It was ascertained to-day that fully $35,-
